*"The students totally drove this idea...and created a meaningful program."
University of Rochester*

*"The Muslim students took us through a step-by-step explanation of their prayers... It was an incredibly powerful and educational opportunity... Prayer opened up an intimate avenue of dialogue."
University of Arizona Hillel*

*"Differences persist...our job is not to shy away from those differences but rather to question and confront them without the fear of losing a sense of community or togetherness."

* Second year of funding

“In a year that I was very concerned about the potential for dialogue between the MSA and Hillel, I was so impressed by the bonds and relationships that I saw develop during this series of programs. Given the difficulties that we have seen on our campus surrounding Israel and anti-Semitism this semester, not only have our students overcome difficulties, they have created the kind of relationships that we rely on so much when incidents happen on our campus.”

Vanderbilt Hillel Staff      Program funded: Hillel/MSA (Muslim Student Association) Cooperative
