

*Be a voice for change
Make a difference in your campus community*

The Ivy League Intercollegiate Leadership Colloquium on the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict

Brown University ~ February 17-19, 2012

The Mission of the Colloquium

To empower and enable student participants to make a difference and transform the conversation surrounding the Israeli-Palestinian conflict on their campuses to one that is more civil and nuanced.

- Expand your skills in Conflict Resolution, Communication, and Leadership
- Meet distinguished scholars and professionals dedicated to solving the Israeli-Palestinian conflict
- Engage in a series of workshops, panel presentations, discussions, and other activities with participants from diverse backgrounds
- Develop a deeper appreciation of the issues surrounding the conflict from various perspectives

All attendees will receive a full scholarship to the colloquium including travel reimbursement.

Sponsored by the Avi Schaefer Fund, www.AviSchaeferFund.org and Brown University

The Avi Schaefer Fund was created in loving memory of Avi Schaefer, a Brown University Student who was tragically killed by a drunk driver in February 2010. Before his untimely death Avi was involved in a number of dialogue projects on Brown's campus and had hoped to create a conference to bring together Israeli and Palestinian students from all the Ivy League schools. We, Avi's family and friends, are working to make his dream a reality.

